The Symbol of the University

The University of Western Sydney is a cohesive structure of University members, each of which retains its own individuality. The new University and its structure is reflected in its symbol.

The Symbol

Each University member is represented by an arrowhead pointing West. University status is denoted by a silhouette U within each arrowhead. In a minor way it also echoes the traditional association of universities with heraldic shields. Each member is linked together by bars representing the University's network structure. The uppermost point on each arrowhead represents the future — 'upward looking'. Collectively the whole symbol emphatically points West — the University's location.

Colours Within the Symbol

The basic colours of the University are blue (the backdrop of the Blue Mountains) and grey (neutrality). A designated colour and position of ONE arrowhead within the overall blue and grey symbol emphasises individual membership of the University. In the case of Hawkesbury the colour is maroon (having historical significance), for Macarthur it is green, and for Nepean it is burnt orange.
